Adult Gerontology Acute Care Nurse Practitioner Faculty

The Search

The University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio School of Nursing, one of five schools in a thriving South Texas Medical Center, is a vibrant, growing School, dedicated to serving the South Texas community and beyond. We are committed to excellence in education, research and practice. Research centers such as the Barshop Center for Aging, Cancer Therapy and Research Center, Academic Center for Evidence Based Practice and the Center for Community-Based Health Promotion in Women and Children provide extensive intra- and inter-disciplinary teaching and research opportunities in a multicultural environment. This well established School of Nursing with over 100 faculty and 11,000 professional graduates, offers BSN, MSN, DNP, and PhD programs of study. Our city’s health care systems including Baptist, Christus Santa Rosa, Methodist, and University as well as several major military hospital systems provide rich opportunities for collaboration.

We invite doctorally prepared individuals with preparation as an acute care advanced practice nurse in the area of adult gerontology to apply for a tenured, tenure track or clinical track position at junior or senior ranks. Rank and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. The successful applicant will receive an appointment in the Department of Health Restoration & Care Systems Management. Faculty in this department hold expertise in restoring adult patient health in the context of complex systems of care. Care Systems Management refers to management and leadership at micro- (unit level), meso- and macro-system levels in accountable care organizations and other caregiver systems in which healthcare teams deliver restorative care.

Our dynamic faculty is forging partnerships that offer cutting-edge opportunities for collaboration and programming that position us for national recognition. We lead in excellence in nursing leadership through innovative teaching, quality research, compassionate care and community service. Our vision is to become a national model for inter-professional educational excellence that uniquely prepares graduates for the challenges of today’s health system.
