Part-time Clinical Positions

The School of Nursing at the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio is one of five schools in a thriving South Texas Medical Center. It is vibrant, growing, and dedicated to serving the South Texas community and beyond. We are committed to excellence in education, research, and practice. Research centers such as the Barshop Center for Aging, Cancer Therapy and Research Center, Center for Advancing Clinical Excellence, and the Center for Community-Based Health Promotion in Women and Children provide extensive teaching and research opportunities in a multicultural environment. The School of Nursing, with over 100 faculty and 11,000 professional graduates, offers BSN, MSN, DNP, and PhD programs of study. Our city’s health care systems include Baptist, Christus Santa Rosa, Methodist, and University as well as South Texas Veterans and Department of Defense health care systems, available to provide rich opportunities for collaboration. We lead in excellence in nursing leadership through innovative teaching, quality research, compassionate care, and community service. Our mission is to engage with our diverse students and communities to produce the future nursing leaders who will impact local and global health and lead the transformation of health care to make lives better through education, research, practice, and community engagement.
