

Concurrent Session 5-A

¿Quiere ver el Bordo? The Intersection of Place, Culture, Poverty, Papers and Health on the Border

Dr. Lulis del Castillo is an adjunct professor who teaches at the University of South Carolina College of Social Work and a researcher in the College of Nursing working with the ENLACE Project. In this capacity, she has provided the majority qualitative analysis for a mixed-method research project funded by NIH which is being conducted in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Dr. del Castillo is a member of the National Association of Social Work and past Vice-President of the local SC Chapter. Dr. del Castillo received her Bachelor's degree from The University of Texas at Austin and both her Master in Social Work and Ph.D. from the University of South Carolina.

No handouts provided for this presentation.
