

Concurrent Session 6-B

Grandparent Influence on Childhood Health Behaviors (Healthy Us Grandparent Study - HUGS)

Dr. Theresa Garcia is an Assistant Professor at Texas A&M University - Corpus Christi. She teaches Research Methods and Health Law & Ethics to both undergraduate and graduate level students. Her clinical experience in pediatric ICU and research in gerontology and type 2 diabetes prevention has led her to focus on family-centered interventions aimed at decreasing childhood obesity through the influence of grandparents.

Sara Baldwin, PhD, RN, APHN-BC, Texas A&M University Corpus Christi

Dr. Denise De La Rosa is an Assistant Professor at Texas A&M University Corpus Christi in the College of Nursing and Health Sciences, teaching in the Family Nurse Practitioner program. She obtained her BSN from Boston College, her MSN/FNP from Texas A&M University Corpus Christi, and her DNP from Chatham University. Her research interest is in pediatric obesity.

Beatriz Cazares, RN, Texas A&M University Corpus Christi

No handouts provided for this presentation.
